SEIZE TWO SUSPECTS ACCUSED OF HELPING IN LINGLE'S MURDER

Reported Associates of Brothers; Block Move
For Freedom

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Raiding squads from the state's attorney's office today seized two men who were described as associates of Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gunman who has been identified as the murderer of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter.

The men were arrested in a raid on a south side apartment hotel in which Brothers lived at the time Lingle was put on the "spot" by a blond gunman.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, led the raid and hurried the men away to the same hidden headquarters where he grilled Brothers for eighteen days before the capture of the St. Louis man was announced.

Roche seized hotel records showing the periods when Brothers and his alleged associates were residents of the hotel.

That Brothers will be indicted by Monday was the promise made today by the state's attorney's office following a successful attempt by the state to block the suspect's release on a habeas corpus writ.

The legal fight to gain Brothers' release opened late yesterday when a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Mrs. Jessie Brothers Jensen, the suspect's mother, was filed. The writ was refused by Acting Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan.

Brothers, held incommunicado for three weeks as the slayer of Lingle, racketeer and reporter of the Chicago Tribune, was still under a close guard at an outlying hotel.

So close is the watch being kept over the prisoner that Chief Justice Finnegan refused to have the prisoner brought to the court. And he refused to allow attorneys to talk with the man who is accused of the most sensational single gang murder in the annals of Chicago's organized crime.

Authorities admitted that they fear an underworld attempt on Brother's life.

After the hectic court hearing in which defense lawyers claimed the prisoner's constitutional rights were being pushed aside Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, announced that the St. Louis gunman would be indicted before Monday night.

ATHLETE SAVES WOMAN'S LIFE

Marshall College Basketball Star Gives Blood To Patient Near Death

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 10.—An Ohio youth, who is a star athlete at Marshall College here, probably saved the life of a young West Virginia woman by giving her a pint of his blood, physicians at St. Marys Hospital here said today.

It was reported that Mrs. Margaret T. Neale, member of a prominent pioneer family of this section, was greatly improved as a result of a blood transfusion performed Friday night. The athlete is Marvin Laird, star guard on the Big Green College's basketball team.

Mrs. Neale is still seriously ill, however, physicians said, but it was stated that she would probably live as a result of the transfusion.

She was taken to the hospital two weeks ago suffering from internal disorders. When her condition turned critical Friday, Dr. F. C. Hodges sent an emergency call to the Marshall College gymnasium. Three athletes answered the summons.

When Laird's blood was found to match that of Mrs. Neale, he submitted to the transfusion. He expects to play basketball tonight against Morris Harvey College.

TAXI DRIVER UNDER TECHNICAL ARREST AFTER DEATH OF GIRL

Ernest Haynes, 35, colored, Fair St., taxicab driver, is a patient at the County Infirmary hospital and is technically under arrest. Prosecuting Attorney Marcus McCallister disclosed Saturday, announcing that no charges will be filed against him pending an inquest into the death of Miss Helen H. Sample, 23, Kokomo, Ind., who received fatal injuries in a taxicab-train collision Wednesday night.

Haynes, driver of the taxi in which Miss Sample was riding as a passenger, suffered three fractured ribs as his most serious injuries.

Coroner R. L. Haines, Jamestown, will conduct an inquest into the accident Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, he announced Saturday.

Miss Sample, employed as a night nurse at the O. S. and S. O. Home, was on her way to the institution to work on night duty at the hospital after a trip to Dayton when the taxi collided with the front end of a passenger train at Detroit and Third Sts. She suffered a skull fracture and died at Espey Hospital early Friday afternoon.

The driver of the taxi is said to have offered no explanation for the collision other than the fact that he was "blacked" before his eyes just before his sedan crashed into the locomotive.

After receiving medical treatment at Espey Hospital after the accident, he was permitted to return to his home, but Prosecutor McCallister ordered his removal Saturday to the infirmary hospital, in order that he may be kept under surveillance. The body of Miss Sample was removed to Ironton Friday by an Ironton undertaker. Burial will be made there.

WOMEN PILOTS SET NEW RECORD IN ENDURANCE

Bobby Trout and Edna May Cooper Land After 123 Hours

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 10.—Bobby Trout and Edna May Cooper took things easy today as they reviewed incidents of the endurance flight which brought them the women's endurance refueling record of the world after being aloft for 123 hours and fifty minutes.

At the request of the light sponsor the two girls brought their monoplane "Lady Rolph" to earth here at 5:30 p. m., yesterday. Stepping from the plane they had flown longer than any other woman had in continuous flight, the young women looked fresh and appeared to be suffering very little from the strain.

Joseph Martin, sponsor of the flight, said he had asked the girls to land due to protests from residents of the suburb of Inglewood that the plane disturbed them at night. The flight could have been prolonged for many hours otherwise, Martin said.

After posing for photographs the girls were taken to a hospital for examination and a chance to relax.

Their new record exceeded the former women's endurance mark set by Miss Trout and Elinor Smith of New York by eighty-one hours.

THREE KILLED BY AIR CRASH

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 10.—Three men were dead today and a fourth was suffering critical injuries as authorities opened an investigation of an airplane crash which late yesterday interrupted events in the All-American air meet.

The speeding plane which plunged to earth near the race course was not an entrant in the events. The craft was demolished and the engine buried itself deep in the soft ground.

From the wreckage police took the bodies of James W. Riddle, 23, pilot of the craft; Robert W. Smalley, 32, owner of the plane; and Dr. Harry A. Ware, Jr., David A. Smalley, 54, was seriously injured. All the victims were prominent Chicagoans.

CLAIM PRISONER IS INNOCENT OF CRIME ALTHOUGH IN CELL

Trigger Woman and Companion Admit Murder Guilt

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 10.—Announcement that they are convinced that the crime for which Frank Howell, 30, of New Martinsville, W. Va., was convicted was executed by Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague, condemned murderers, officials of Marshall County today launched an investigation which may result in the liberation of the prisoner from the West Virginia State Penitentiary here.

Howell has been in the state prison since November, 1929, serving a 15-year sentence for the hold-up and robbery of a filling station at New Martinsville owned by Frank Gotts. His wife, who bears a marked resemblance to Mrs. Schroeder, was also brought to trial for the robbery. She was acquitted, however.

The county authorities, including Prosecutor J. Lloyd Arnold and Sheriff George Dorsey, returned this morning from New Castle, Pa., where they questioned the notorious blonde trigger woman and her sweetheart. They said that the pair made a complete confession of the robbery, in which they obtained $60 loot.

"I do not want anyone in prison for a crime which we committed," Dague was reported as saying to the investigators.

The pair is now awaiting execution for the slaying of Corporal Brady Paul of the Pennsylvania State highway patrol.

Howell has always contended that he was innocent of the crime. His wife has also maintained the innocence of her husband. Following her acquittal of the Gotts robbery, Mrs. Howell was taken to Cadiz, O., where she was tried for another robbery. She was again acquitted.

Gotts who accompanied the officials to New Castle to talk with the convicted killers, stated that he was mistaken in identifying Mrs. Howell as the woman accomplice in the robbery of his station. He declared that he had thought it impossible for two women to look so much alike.

FRESIDENT FACING DILEMMA RESULT OF RECALL BY SENATE

Action Unprecedented; Hoover Defy Would Cause Impasse

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—An extraordinary political dilemma confronted President Hoover today as a result of the senate's action in formally requesting him to return the nominations of three new federal power commissioners, who were confirmed and sworn into office before Christmas.

This precedent-shattering request was made in reference to the appointments of George Otis Smith, chairman, Marcel Garsaud and Claude L. Draper. It was the senate's reply to their order, dismissing Charles A. Russell, attorney, and William V. King, accountant, looked upon as "enemies of the power trust."

The senate first voted to reconsider each nomination and then requested the President to return the necessary papers. There were two record roll-calls on Smith; the senate first voting 44 to 37 to reconsider his appointment and then, by a like vote, requested the return of his nomination. The same action was taken toward Draper and Garsaud, but without record votes.

It was the first time in history the senate has made such a request of the President after an appointee was sworn into office. It was stated on reliable authority the President would ignore all requests, but might delay a decision to bolster his refusal with an opinion from the attorney general.

If the President defies the senate, he will provoke one of the strangest impasses in American history. It is barely possible the senate may proceed, even without the papers, and reject the three appointees. The government disbursing office then must decide if the commissioners may draw salaries. If he should refuse to pay them, they will be automatically ousted. Later in the year, the senate will get an opportunity to prohibit their salaries when it acts upon the independent offices appropriation bill, thus ousting them in the fiscal year, beginning July 1.

The President's duty will also bring the charge he is "friendly to the power trust," and approves the commission's order in dismissing Russell and King. He will furnish also an answer to the water power issue—and he will raise a unique constitutional issue in refusing to cooperate with the senate in its constitutional power of considering confirmations according to its own rules.

If the President returns the nominations, he virtually abandons the three new commissioners to the fate at the hands of an unfriendly senate. Some believe both Garsaud and Draper can be confirmed again, but not even administration leaders deny Smith would be rejected.

Even with the President's support, many believe he cannot be confirmed again for any public office. Rightly or wrongly, the senate holds Smith responsible for the entire controversy.

INDICATE CHARGES WILL BE PREFERRED IN ANKENY DEATH

Corner's Inquest Not Completed; To Hear One Witness

Although withholding a verdict for the present following a formal inquest conducted Friday afternoon in the grand jury room at the Court House, Coroner R. L. Haines, Jamestown, intimated that charges of some nature will be preferred as a result of the accidental death of Horace Ankeny, 30, prominent Beaver Creek Twp. farmer and former state legislator, who was fatally injured on the Dayton-Xenia Pike New Year's eve.

Testimony of eleven witnesses was heard at the inquest but Coroner Haines will reserve his verdict until he has had an opportunity to interview G. A. Bennett, Dayton, who had not been subpoenaed and did not appear at the inquest.

Mr. Ankeny was fatally injured when struck by an auto driven by Carol St. John, 113 Cass St., Dayton, while standing at the rear of a stranded truck along the highway. He and a minister, whom he had been visiting, were engaged in assisting the truck driver, J. C. Wells, Columbus, who was having difficulty with a load of horses as was transporting.

Bennett, whose testimony is sought by the coroner before he discloses his verdict, owned the truck and employed Wells as driver. He has been asked to give his testimony here next Wednesday.

Coroner Haines announced the evidence indicated St. John has defective vision, that the stalled truck was not equipped with a tail light and that Wells had no truck driver's license.

THREE INJURED IN GAS BLAST, FIRE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10.—State and local fire officials today launched an investigation into a blast and fire at an East side apartment building, which resulted in the injury of three persons and forced firemen to work rapidly in saving the lives of thirteen others in the blaze.

Brained and cut, Reedy dashed across the street in time to check the fall of Harry Stern, 35, who jumped from the second story of the structure. Stern sustained a fractured rib and several cuts.

Harry Schero was blown into the middle of the street when the explosion took place as he was walking in front of the building. He received minor injuries.

Cause of the explosion was believed to have been an accumulation of natural gas in the basement. Damage was estimated at $35,000.

STATE COMMISSION SETS VALUATION IN RATE CONTROVERSY

Case Pending Since 1922; Actual Rates Not Yet Decided

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10.—Announcing a tentative property valuation of $104,282,735, the State Utilities Commission today neared the end of the Ohio Bell Telephone rate case pending since 1922.

Council for the company and for the state are given thirty days in which to lodge a protest with the commission in the event that either side disapproves of the commission's figures.

If a protest is filed, the commission would arrange for further hearing and introduction of evidence bearing upon the points at issue. If no protest is submitted, the commission will make its tentative valuation final and proceed to determine upon a new rate schedule.

Before deciding upon the new rates, however, the commission will make a study of the company's rate structure involving the gross and net income covering all of the company's operations in Ohio. This will, necessarily, consume additional time, the length of which must be determined by the extent of investigation required.

The $104,282,735, in the opinion of the commission, represents the valuation of the company's property which is used and useful, as of June 30, 1925, in rendering service to the public upon a reproduction cost new, less depreciation.

Of this valuation, $11,924,679 is allocated by the commission to the property used by the company for toll purposes. Other allowances, including going concern value and working capital, amount to $13,871,579 the amount allocated to toll lines, leaving an approximate value of $90,000,000 allocated to the value of the property used in local service.

The case affects at least 71,000 telephone users and a city-wide population aggregating probably about 3,000,000 persons, in addition to a large rural population. The case also involves the company's application for the fixing of toll rates.

The company sought a maximum valuation of $145,000,000, was counsel for the state and protesting communities submitted testimony in support of aggregate valuations ranging from $10,000,000 to $91,000,000.

The commission found that the value of the total physical property was $82,891,851, that the undistributed construction expenditures amounted to $14,298,844, that the going-concern value totaled $3,592,040, making a total fixed capital of $100,782,735, that the company was entitled to working capital, including supplies, to the

"Ego Jealousy" Cause of Most Tragedies

Psychologists Claim Jealousy Merely Injured Egoism—It Is Harbored by Members of Both Sexes, Who Sometimes Rightly and Oftentimes Mistakenly Become Victims of Inferiority Complexes.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The "Green-Eyed Monster" has been tracked to his lair. Not only that. He has been dragged forth into the light of day and subjected to the most undignified treatment that a self-respecting monster has ever been called upon to endure.

Jealousy, which we have hitherto regarded as one of the prime factors of Love—oh, yes, we have. How many times have you heard it said: "There's no love without jealousy?"—has been dissected and analyzed under the X-ray of psychology and proved to be just a false alarm. In other words, a mere inferiority complex.

The mind—say the psychologists—has a peculiar kink. Ego being supreme in all the acts and behavior of men and women, when it is spurned, belittled or made to feel conscious that it isn't what its owner had appraised it to be, then it turns in fury on the object that unmasked it.

A notable case of "ego-jealousy" was that of Señora Marie Delanda, Mexican beauty winner, who shot Victor Moses Vidal, when she discovered that he had neglected to mention the wife he had in the back-ground.

Andre Tridon, noted American psychologist, relates an incident that took place in a western hamlet.

An innkeeper had a young wife whom he could not induce to come to his hotel and help to run it. She always had some excuse—bad weather, ill health, and so on.

Then came a young guest to the inn. During one of her infrequent visits the young wife met him and from that moment she was a regular visitor, until the inevitable ending in the divorce court.

What impressed the psychologist most was the fact that in the course of the trial the indelicate details of his wife's behavior did not anger the husband as much as did her "coming to the hotel regularly from the day that young loafer arrived there." In other words, he did not mourn the loss of his beautiful, young wife as much as the injury he felt from the proven fact that she preferred the "young loafer" to his august self and the resultant deflation of the balloon of his self-esteem.

A Swiss psycho-analyst, who has studied the cases of 120 of his neurosis (jealousy) patients—an equal number of wives and husbands—reports that out of that number only in eight instances were there grounds for jealousy, and that in 112 cases his patients acquired neurosis simply through inferiority complexes.

There are two kinds of jealousy, both of which are classed by psychologists as nerve diseases. One is that attributed to sex. It is harbored by both sexes, who, sometimes rightly but more often mistakenly, become victims of inferiority complex.

Sex jealousy is responsible for at least 90 per cent of neurosis among women. But men usually pour forth the vials of wrath upon the object of their grievance and thus avoid serious damage to their nerves.

It was "sex-jealousy" that drove Warren Cliff, painter, of Atlantic City, "frantic," so that he murdered his wife, Betty, and tried to take his own life.

PROPER DIRECTION OF YOUTH URGED AT PRAYER SERVICES

"The youth of today is not worse and is no better than the youth of yesterday and is just as much in need of spiritual training as ever," declared Dr. W. P. Harriman, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Cedarville, at the Week of Prayer services at the First U. P. Church Friday evening.

Dr. Harriman's subject was "The Evangelization of Youth." He said "The only hope of American democracy and world peace is in the proper direction of the youth of today into channels of usefulness under the direction of Christ." He made a plea for a closer contact between the church and the school.

Closing services for the Week of Prayer will be held at the Second U. P. Church Sunday evening with Dr. Joseph Harris, of Bonbrake Seminary, Dayton, delivering the sermon. Special music will be on the program and the public is invited to attend.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest; and finding none, he saith, I will return unto my house whence I came out. And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished.—St. Luke, xi, 24, 25.

AGAINST FEMINISM

A former attorney-general of Massachusetts has left $100,000 to four universities—Columbia, Yale, Harvard and Princeton—to fight "feminism" and its consequences, which the testator believed are seriously impairing our home life by putting women into politics and business. The purpose of his bequest is to enable the universities receiving them to develop "sound public opinion and action" on the subject of woman's place in society.

There is room for the development of sound public opinion on that subject, as on a good many other problems of this transition period; but that the search for truth should start from the ex parte assumption that enlarging the sphere of women's activities is an evil, will not pass without being challenged. Curiously enough, Columbia and Harvard have closely affiliated women's colleges, which are supposed to be hotbeds of feminism. Can universities accept financial aid to put women back in the kitchen, after they have done so much to train women for vocations outside the home, without embarrassment to their sense of consistency?

A good many crimes have been committed in the name of feminism—and a good many other crimes have been unfairly attributed to a movement exemplary in intent, whatever some of its consequences may be. One thing is certain. Women can't be forced out of politics and business by establishing lectureships in universities. They have been forced out of the home by economic conditions—and they will not return to exclusive domestic activity until those conditions change. Women acquired the vote as a logical recognition of their new status in business and the professions. They have used it, all things considered, as intelligently as could be expected.

The feminist movement was natural and irresistible. What its ultimate value to the race will be remains for future generations to discover. Attacking it because it is something recent, and consequently alarming to those who believe that everything must go on always as it always has, will hardly develop a "sound" opinion respecting it.

CELESTIAL PLAYERS

The eye of faith in Porto Rico learned the Star of Bethlehem glowing in the skies early on the morning of "Three Kings' day" (January 6), and continued to glimpse it throughout a twelve-hour period ending shortly after noon.

The eye of skepticism also saw a star, but suggested that the body really was the planet Venus shining when first discovered at about 1 a. m. in the western heavens, or so the report says.

The explanation has a germ of fact, but it leaves much to be desired. If the time and location of the celestial appearance are reported correctly, it certainly was not Venus which furnished the show in the night. Venus does not get that far from the sun. Moreover, anybody who feels like kicking off the covers a little before daybreak can look out of his window these mornings and see that silvery planet lying low above the eastern horizon and acting as a herald of the dawn. The show is worth getting up to view, too. The sky offers nothing prettier. Jupiter, however, is in the west in the morning, getting ready to set after a night out, and as he sinks, he rivals his rising sister world in brightness. It may easily have been old Jude that the devout Porto Ricans, emerging from their beds at an uninvited hour, saw sailing boldly overhead. In fact, we may conclude definitely that it was.

As to the star which was seen after mid-day, that is another matter. There Venus has her inning. She has just passed her period of greatest brightness. She is far enough from the sun to be outside the range of his fiercest rays. And Napoleon Bonaparte has not been the only person to catch sight of her in the daytime. Lots of people have done that. At her best Venus is easy to sight even at noon. If one knows where to look. And if she is not commonly viewed while the sun is up, that is because people keep their eyes turned elsewhere.

At last the country has found out how to blight a third party movement. Just urge those threatening one to go ahead and make good.

Excessive optimism is not the remedy for excessive pessimism, unless it is true that two wrongs make a right.

ALL of US

—By—
MARSHALL MASLIN

HOW ABOUT THAT OTHER SELF?

I've a friend who lost two days out of his life—and doesn't know where they went.

He crossed a street, an automobile hit him, he recovered consciousness in a hospital one week later, got well at last, and is now walking the streets as briskly as ever.

Of course he doesn't remember the days of his unconsciousness. You would not expect him to do so. But the odd thing is that he has completely forgotten the two days just BEFORE he was hit by that automobile. The accident wiped them entirely out of his consciousness. They are gone. He can't find them anywhere. Nothing he sees or does ever reminds him of them. They are lost, apparently, forever. . . . But how did he lose those two days out of himself—and does it matter?

And that's another of those things I wish I understood. I've read books on the subject of the mind. I've discussed that thing with doctors. Nothing ever gave me any satisfactory explanation of what happened to those two days. . . . That same thing has happened to other people. They've had accidents and lost part of their lives. There are strange cases, too, of people who have two personalities. They live for a few months, say, as a rather sickly, unhappy person, then suddenly become a brisk energetic person, then just as suddenly switch back to the other personality. And neither personality can remember the other.

What happens to us, anyway? What's going on inside of us? When we are happy and behaving decently, what has become of that other self that behaves so badly at times? When we are furiously in a rage, saying things and doing things we regret later on, where is that better human being we like to think we are? I wish I knew. . . . But somehow I'm glad we're like this. I'm glad we're not solid, unchangeable creatures. I'm glad we move about the way we do. It gives us something to work at. We can slip back, but we can go ahead, too. We can be ourselves some time. Eventually we can jell into something worthwhile, and life can never become entirely dull or monotonous as long as we carry that mystery of personality within us—and which is some other fellow we'd like to be.

Bo-Broadway

NEW YORK. — If some of the bandits who make life so interesting in New York would display, in honest endeavor, one-half the nerve and the ingenuity they do in crooked exploits, they could have the world, and everything that's in it, with no man to challenge them.

But their make-up is defective. They seem to be hampered by the fact that their cleverness and daring come to the fore only when they are engaged in some phoney pursuit.

And don't go away with the idea that only among bandits is this the case. A number of business men operate under the same handicap.

RELIC OF GOLGOTHA

An art dealer has placed in the hands of a New York pawnbroker a reliquary containing what are declared to be pieces of the Crown of Thorns which the Roman soldiers pressed upon the head of Christ shortly before the Crucifixion.

The dealer, an importer of objects of art, asserts proof of authenticity. The pawnbroker, who has nothing to say on that question, wishes it understood that he makes the information public by special permission from the dealer.

It is this cool and careless quality so essential to the collective action of males that the Reformers overlooked when they stamped the old ins out of existence. DEMOCRATS MORE READY TO DEFINE THEMSELVES THAN ARE REPUBLICANS

WASHINGTON. — As between means committee. Representative Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee is senior Democratic member and chairman-to-be of the appropriations committee, should his party muster sufficient strength at the next congressional session to control the almost evenly-balanced popular chamber.

"What's a Democrat?" I asked Representative Byrns. "A real Democrat," said the Tennesseean, "exalts human rights. Property rights are secondary consideration with him. "A Republican—" (As previously intimated the Democratic interpretation of Democracy includes a contrasting Democratic interpretation of Republicanism.)

"A Republican exalts property rights at the expense of humanity's. The Democratic aim is to govern for the people's benefit, without prejudice to the accumulation of wealth but with no advantage of special privileges. The Republican aim is to govern for the benefit of the rich, trusting to their goodness of heart not to be greedy."

"Pooh!" quoth Representative Hawley, in rebuttal.

"We have no permanently rich and poor in America. The Republicans govern for the benefit of everyone."

But all this had failed to solve the problem: "What is Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska?"

Though perhaps Representative

Hawley's comment had excluded the Nebraskan as a Republican. Representative Byrns had not necessarily admitted him as a Democrat.

I had to fall back on a seven-word size-up of progressive-ism which I once had from the then Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, in response to a request I had made of him, as a Democratic presidential possibility, for a summary of Jeffersonian doctrines.

It much resembled Representative Byrns' Republican comparison and all.

"And how," I queried, "do you classify Republicans like Senator Norris?"

"As honest men on the wrong side," said the Missouri fire-eater.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

Macaroni and Cheese
Buttered Beets or Spinach
Jellied Vegetable Salad
Nut Bread Marmalade Tea

I am giving you the macaroni and cheese recipe which I have used for a good many years. It makes a smoother mixture, I think, than is possible by pouring the milk over the macaroni and cheese which have been placed in layers in the baking dish. This amount will serve six.

Today's Recipes

Macaroni and Cheese.—One package macaroni broken in inch pieces, boiled in salted water until tender, drained and blanched with cold water. Two tablespoons butter, melted. Add two tablespoons flour, mix smooth, then gradually add one pint—two cups—of milk, stirring constantly until it comes to a boil and is smooth and thick. Then add one cup grated or finely chopped cheese and stir until cheese is dissolved, season to taste. Put macaroni in a buttered baking dish, pour cheese sauce over and mix thoroughly through it, cover with buttered bread crumbs with a little grated cheese, and bake until brown, about 20 minutes.

Nut Bread.—Two cups flour, one teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder, one cup sugar, two cups wholewheat or graham flour, two cups milk, one egg, one cup nuts. Sift flour, salt, baking powder and sugar together. Mix with the wholewheat flour. Add milk slowly, then the well-beaten egg. Beat well. Add chopped nuts. Put into well-greased pans and let stand 20 minutes. Bake one hour in a moderate oven. 350 degrees. Makes one large loaf.

Never Overload a Furnace. The average homeowner often fails to realize that overloading the furnace is one of the most dangerous things he can do. There is always the possibility of fire when heating or flue surfaces are raised to an exceedingly high temperature, at times even to red heat. A greater and more common danger is the menace of coal gas. Overloading the furnace causes its joints to expand. Loose joints, in turn, allow poisonous coal gas to escape into the rooms above, sometimes with disastrous consequences. If your heating plant is so old or so small that you must overload the furnace to keep the house comfortable, it will pay you to modernize the heating system before trouble comes.

Non-Irritating Diet Necessary

—By—LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.—

Many people who believe their colons are sluggish, eat a great deal of roughage and are constantly bloated and uncomfortable and have a tight feeling in the abdomen. This is because they really have highly sensitive and irritable colons, and in order to be comfortable and have a sense of ease, they need an opposite type of diet.

They are nearly always uncomfortable on a high residue diet, and although this gives them regular evacuations, it irritates the inside of the bowel so much that they always feel a sense of pressure or incomplete emptying. Often they take to cathartics to get rid of this full feeling, and the cathartics still further irritate an already sensitive mucous lining of the colon.

Such are the cases which have come lately to be called colitis. It is more a nerve irritability than an actual inflammation of the colon (as the word colitis would indicate). But some cases go on to an extremely severe functional condition—mucous colitis.

For these individuals the question of a daily evacuation is of secondary importance. They require to be made comfortable, and must have a "smooth" or non-residue diet. Such a diet, containing sufficient residue for such intestines is as follows:

Cereals: All kinds except bran foods. (Oatmeal should be cooked in a double boiler at least one hour.) May have cream and sugar.

Bread: Toast, crackers, stale bread, zwieback.

Eggs: Coddled, boiled, poached or scrambled over water—usually two a day.

Meats: Lean meat only. No pork or pickled meats. Meats should include beef (broiled steak, boiled or baked beef), stewed or baked chicken; broiled or baked fish; broiled or baked liver. May have two slices of crisp bacon a day.

Soups: Cream soups, strained vegetable or lean meat broth.

Fruits: Orange juice or grapefruit juice (with sugar if desired). Dairy Products: Buttermilk, cottage cheese, butter.

Miscellaneous: Noodles, macaroni, spaghetti (no tomato sauce). Desserts: Rice, gelatin (made with strained fruit juices if desired). May have fruit jellies, tapioca, rice pudding (without raisins), vanilla ice cream, leas, sugar cookies, angel food cake, stick candy.

Beverages: One cup coffee a day. One cup tea a day (unless contraindicated). Water in abundance.

Avoid: Sweet milk, fats (except butter and cream), fried foods, pancakes, condiments, spiced foods, pickled meats, pork, syrups, jams, soda fountain drinks, iced drinks, cider, salads, vegetables, fruits (except as ordered), all pastries (except as ordered).

Be Cautious In Choosing Next Wife

—By—MRS. VIRGINIA LEE—

"Dear Virginia Lee: I have been a constant reader and admirer of your column for some time. Of course I cannot always agree with your advice, but, on the whole, I think it is very fine.

"I am a widower 40 years old. Wife has been dead two years. Have two daughters, 12 and 14 years of age. I never thought it possible I would ever consider marrying again until a few weeks ago when I, just by accident, went into a cafe to dine and a girl waited on me. Now you may not believe in such things—I never did before this—but I simply fell desperately in love with that girl at once.

"She appears to be about 25 years of age. I have been back there several times since, and the more I see of her the better I think of her, and somehow it seems to me she has taken an interest in me.

"I neglected to say that I am in good health and clean morally and physically and can give her a comfortable home with pleasant surroundings. Please answer frankly whether you think I can hope to make her happy in a way I can win her. If I cannot do that I would not think of trying to win her, however much I wish it.

"Now if you can conscientiously advise me to try to win her, please suggest some nice way of getting acquainted with her. I do not even know her name, and I haven't the least idea how to go about picking up an acquaintance with her or anyone. Yours, Serious."

Being incurably romantic I can easily understand how you can have fallen in love with what you think the girl of your dreams is. Why don't you go to the proprietor of the cafe, tell him who you are, offering him proofs of your identity and standing, if necessary, and ask him to introduce you to the girl.

If she is the kind of girl you think she might not appreciate advances from a man like me, but I would be glad to give you the chance to become a friend if you met her through her employer. This may not be necessary, however. She and aims.

Secret Of Training Unruly Brows

—By—GLADYS GLAD—

"Dear Miss Glad: I've obtained such excellent results from the use of the castor oil shampoo described in your 'Beauty Culture' booklet, that I simply had to write and express my thanks to you. My hair used to be terribly thin and scraggly, but it has grown quite a bit thicker since I procured your booklet. However, my eyebrows have been giving me quite a bit of trouble. They look so fuzzy and untidy. I've been brushing them morning and evening for quite some time, but it hasn't done any good. Is there any other method of training unruly eyebrows besides the brushing?"

"MRS. AUBER."

Extremely stubborn eyebrows may be trained by the use of plain cornstarch. Mix enough cold water with a small quantity of cornstarch to form a thick, heavy paste. Then apply the mixture to the brows with a small eyebrow brush before retiring at night, and allow it to remain on until the following morning. In the morning, remove the cornstarch with warm water and a soft cloth, and brush the brows with a small brush that has been moistened with plain castor oil or vaseline.

"Dear Miss Glad: Quite some time ago I read an article on the beneficial qualities of powdered milk when used as a face mask. I purchased some of the powdered milk at my drug store, but misplaced the article. Therefore I do not know how the mask should be applied. Can you tell me how to apply this mask?"

"CARELESS" The powdered milk mask is very simple to prepare and to apply. The skin should first be thoroughly cleansed with a pure, bland soap and warm water, and then with a lighthearted cleansing cream. Remove the cleansing cream and pat a rich nourishing cream into the skin. Allow this cream to remain on the skin for a few minutes and then remove it with tepid water and a soft cloth. If your skin is dry, you may allow a thin film of the nutrient cream to remain on the skin beneath the pack. Next, mix a heaping tablespoonful of the powdered milk with enough cold water to form a smooth, creamy paste. If your skin is excessively oily, you may substitute a good skin tonic for the water. Apply the paste over the face and allow it to dry. Lie down and relax during this period of time. When thoroughly dry, remove the mask with warm water and a soft cloth. This mask bleaches the skin and leaves it soft and smooth.

"Dear Miss Glad: My hair has quite a bit of natural curl in it, and I can set a most satisfactory wave in my tresses if I use a waving lotion. But I've heard that some of the lotions on the market are harmful to the hair. Can you tell me of a good waving lotion that I might use? T. K. G."

An excellent wave-setting lotion can be prepared from quince seeds. Boil one tablespoonful of the quince seeds in a quart of water, and strain the mixture through a fine-meshed cloth. A few drops of deodorized alcohol should be added to preserve the fluid. Small quantities of perfume and coloring matter may be added if desired, but they are unnecessary. If you add the perfume, you need not add the alcohol as there is sufficient alcohol in the perfume to preserve the mixture. If you think the fluid too thick, dilute it with water before you use it.

GLADYS GLAD. EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each, to cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

"There is no reason why eleven men who are highly intelligent on the football field should not show an equal intelligence in class room work. I should like to see some outstanding football players in competition with a few of our self-enthroned intellectuals. The results, I think, would be very surprising."

This statement was made by Knute Rockne, coach of Notre Dame, who said the award of the Albert Russell Erskine football trophy to the South Bend, Ind., champions of the American football world, should not be taken as an example of over-emphasis in football.

The cup was presented to the team and an engraved scroll was given Knute at New York City. After extolling the team's ability and sportsmanship in the highest terms and delivering to Frank Carideo, all-American quarterback, the silver cup emblematic of national champions, Mayor Jimmy Walker turned to Rockne and said: "Rockne has set up the noble idea of victory with honor, and is the greatest psychologist and educator in the country."

Every time Knute opens his mouth, something interesting comes out.

As if to support Rockne's argument, and contrary to the usual stories circulated about university athletics, recent announcements from Ohio University revealed the scholastic average of this school's varsity athletes is above the average of all men in school.

Two of Ohio's outstanding athletes, John Trace, Zanesville, and Herbert Schreiber, Cleveland, make extremely enviable grade records, Schreiber's grades being straight A's, or perfect, while Trace's barely missed this mark.

Possibly there may be some mistake, but we read the other day, our source of information being second-hand, that Piqua Central High School wound up its 1930 football season with a treasury deficit of $150. And for some time we had been "pointing with pride," as it were, to Piqua as one community which supports its Miami Valley League entry in football. Last Thanksgiving Day more than 2,500 fans turned out to watch Piqua and Troy eleven play, and now to learn that Piqua football did not pay for itself in 1930 is more or less a body blow to our arguments.

MCKINLEY A TEAMS WINNERS SATURDAY IN GRADE LEAGUE

Play was resumed in the intra-city grade basketball league Saturday morning when the third round was played between the A and B teams of McKinley grade school. All three A teams emerged victorious.

The first game of the morning saw the 4A team down the 4B team by a score of 5 to 1. Foley and Ireland led in the attack of the winners while Richards showed to advantage for the losers.

Five-A defeated 5B 8 to 5 in the second game of the morning's festivities. The game was close throughout with the A team having the advantage by a point or two. Bennington and Huston looked best for the winners the former accounting for four of his team's points. For the losers Randall looked the best.

In the third and final game of the morning 6A walloped 6B 15 to 2. Eugene Cope led the attack of the winners scoring nine of his team's 15 points. Bortolotto added the other six points by virtue of three field goals. Harold Cope stood out in the play of the losers by scoring a basket and three fouls for a total of five points.

McKinley A teams will meet the 4, 5 and 6 grade teams of Springfield Hill in the fourth round of play next Saturday morning on the Central High School floor.

Xenia Beats Sidney 15-13 To Start League

BUCCANEERS OUTSMART FOES TO TAKE SIXTEENTH LOOP VICTORY

Stall Off Opponents To Protect Slender Lead In Last Quarter; Bell High Scorer; Play Roosevelt Saturday Night

By PHIL FRAME

Xenia Central High basketballers, frequently called the Buccaneers for the reason, we suppose, that happens to be their nickname, got their first taste of Miami Valley League competition this season Friday night and, as usual, found it to their liking.

True to tradition Coach Wilson's band of merry men hurdled its first obstacle in the path to a fourth straight league championship by emerging on the popular end of a 15 to 13 score in the opening league skirmish with Sidney High at Central gym.

Xenia won because it played more wisely and well, the defeat being the initial setback of the current campaign for the Yellow-Jackets, who had previously won three straight games.

A defensive struggle from start to finish, the contending teams were never separated by more than four points, and although the Bucs were never behind, Sidney was always within striking distance.

Xenia started with a rush on baskets by Bell and Glass, after which Kritzer broke the ice for the Buccaneers with a two-pointer. Thompson added a free throw and Faber elongated center, hit the net for Sidney as the first period ended with the Bucs leading, 5 to 4.

The league champions extended their margin to 11 to 7 at the half on fielders by Bell and Glass and fouls by Glass and Thompson, while Sidney was limited to three points, a basket by Douglas and a foul by Faber.

The third quarter was a complete washout from Xenia's standpoint, the Bucs being held scoreless while Sidney evened the count at 11 to 11 on two baskets by Kritzer who was left unguarded on both occasions.

Xenia remedied this state of affairs early in the fourth period when Bell awlashed the net from close range.

The victory enabled Xenia to preserve its spotless record in the league since the circuit was founded. Xenia basketball teams have never lost a game to a league opponent, the close triumph over Sidney, giving the Bucs a record of sixteen consecutive league victories since the six-school circuit came into existence.

Having won two games in a row the Bucs will strive to make it three straight at the expense of Dayton Roosevelt Saturday night in Dayton. Lineups:

Winners Maintain Lead Throughout Court Contest

By BIRCH BELL

Cedarville boys defeated Jefferson Twp. boys 21 to 20 in a well played game on the Cedarville College floor Friday night while the girls game between the two schools ended in a 14 to 14 tie.

Cedarville boys led 14 to 7 at the mid-period and were never in danger at any time during the contest. Cedarville used their entire second team during the last quarter. Harris and Harriman led the scoring attack of the winners with ten points apiece. Harness led the scoring for the losers with seven points.

Cedarville lasses maintained a slight lead throughout the game until the final minute of play when a basket by Linton tied the count at fourteen all. The game ended with this score and no overtime period was played to decide the winner.

The game was won and lost at the four line as each team recorded six baskets. Whereas Xenia picked up three points on eight free throws, Sidney converted only one out of ten shots from the seven-foot mark.

Sidney took a total of forty-five shots at the hoops, twenty-one being long shots and twenty-four short ones. The Bucs tried only thirty-three shots, of which twenty-five were from inside the foul line and only eight were from long range.

Bell, Xenia forward, and Kritzer, Sidney forward, shared high scoring honors, each getting six points while Glass was runnerup with five.

THREE XENIA TEAMS WIN; XENIA RESERVES AND JUNIORS VICTORS

By BIRCH BELL

Xenia teams made a clean sweep of things Friday night winning three games on the basis of a league victory over Sidney, a reserve game victory over Sidney reserves and Central Junior High victory over Bryan Junior High of Yellow Springs.

The Xenia reserve team came back, like the Bucs do sometimes, in the second half after trailing 9 to 0 and won a 14 to 12 verdict over the strong Sidney reserves. A basket by Francis Dalton brother of Freddie, in the last half minute of play gave the Xenia reserves the victory. The Xenia reserves looked like a badly beaten team until the second half when numerous substitutions were made by Coach Wilson and then things began to happen. Baskets began to roll in for the young Bucs and before long an interesting battle was on.

The boys fought away until a basket by Dayton gave them a well earned victory.

In the other preliminary game of the evening Coach Glen Patterson's junior high team romped over a weak Bryan junior high team of Yellow Springs 24 to 2. Springfield Juniors held the Yellow Springs Juniors scoreless in the last half after securing a 10 to 2 lead at the halfway mark. Central Juniors were far superior to their opponents and were never in danger at any time during the contest. Huston led the junior attack with eight points, Latimer and Glen scored six points apiece, Adams rang up his team's only score with a field goal. It was the Central Juniors fifth win without a defeat this season. Lineups:

CARIDEO SIGNED AS COACH AT PURDUE U.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 10.—Frank Carideo, All-American quarterback of Notre Dame's 1930 championship football team, will hold down an all year position on Purdue University's coaching staff beginning next fall. Director of Athletics N. A. Kellogg announced today.

Carideo plans to spend the spring vacation here familiarizing himself with the players and the situation.

HOME CADETS LOSE IN DOUBLE HEADER

Boys' and girls' basketball teams representing the Ohio State School of Deaf registered a twin triumph over the O. S. and S. O. Home court teams in a double-header at Columbus Friday night. Ohio Deaf boys won their game, 27 to 14, and the Ohio Deaf girls vanquished the Xenia Home lasses by the close margin of 29 to 25 in the preliminary.

Police arrested Michael and Anthony Dorrico, brothers, and Michael Fusaro, a pre-empted commit-tee man in Melrose Park.

Police attributed the blast to political and business rivalry after taking three men in custody. The home was occupied by Pasquale, Dominick and Henry Larry. All escaped serious injury.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Stock prices were inclined slightly higher here today in one of the duldest sessions in a month. Stocks marked time while awaiting the steel corporation's monthly report on forward business and the bears played safe by covering up a portion of their shorts.

High-priced specialties like Allied Chemical which were under pressure yesterday snapped back one to four points and fractional gains were recorded for the active rails and utilities. After dragging behind the last most of the short session, U. S. Steel pushed ahead to 14 1/2, up a point from Friday's close. Nash was again the leader in the motor group, and pushed more than a point to 32. Chemicals and coppers were unsettled by the fresh declines in prices of their respective products.

Joretta had dinner waiting when Jim came home the next evening, and neither of them wasted much time about eating. By silent and mutual consent, they lost at little time as possible getting into the big cumbersome motor car ready for the experiment.

Jim touched the starter. There was an instant responsive roar of the engine, and they backed slowly down the driveway to the street.

"Hold you hat. We're off," he exclaimed. "Hear how she purrs, dear? Isn't that some different than she sounded yesterday? And feel the difference in the way she rides, without making any adjustments at all. I tell you, Jetty, I'm getting it!"

There was less traffic than on the previous night, and as soon as they had passed the city limits, he opened the throttle gradually, wider and wider. The car leaped ahead like a thoroughbred greyhound, ate up the miles, and with a smoothness that was amazing.

Higher, higher, the mile indicator registered. Joretta sat tensely, watching the quivering needle, her hands clutching her notebook and pencil, waiting for Jim to speak. It seemed hours before he did.

At last! "Jetty! Do you see how it works?" he shouted above the wind. "It does even better than I expected without further adjustments."

Gradually, he slowed and stopped, looked at her queerly.

"What is the matter?" she asked with alarm.

"Not a thing," he smiled weakly, "except that the thrill of accomplishment has left me wobbly in the knees. Oh, it means so much to us, honey-girl!"

"I know, Jim darling!"

"When I get it perfected, and find a buyer."

"Oh, but the better half of the thrill is the fact that you have done it, Jim. The money is only of secondary importance."

"You can say that as much as you have needed money for three months," he marveled. "If you had waited that six months ago, it wouldn't have meant a thing. But now, Jetty! You are adorable

The Theater

One of the greatest money-makers of the silent screen is to be made into a talkie, announcements say.

"Over the Hill," the sensation of 1926, brought thousands of dollars into the Fox coffers and made the reputation of Mary Carr, who played one of the screen's greatest mother roles in this film.

Her performance is remembered with that of Vera Gordon in "Humoresque" and Belle Bennett in "Stella Dallas." Johnnie Walker also won esteem for his portrayal of the son.

To date the talkie production has only got to the point where Jules Furthman is making the talkie adaptation. The story originally came from Will Carleton's poem. It is a good guess that Clissie Loftus may get Mary Carr's role. She is a stage veteran under contract to Fox.

Later information concerning the William Powell-Carol Lombardi romance reported yesterday, reveals that a last-minute switch puts Miss Lombard opposite Powell in "Cavaliers of the Streets," his last film for Paramount. Jean Arthur was scheduled for the role originally and Wynne Gibson for the second feminine lead. Miss Gibson, a recent importation from the stage, remains in the cast. Carol was also in Powell's last picture, "Ladies' Man" in which Kay Francis won the hero in the final fade-out. The new casting increases talk about the reported romance.

Gloria Swanson is starting her long-expected picture under the sponsorship of De Sylva, Brown and Henderson, the celebrated songwriting firm.

Newly added as juvenile lead is Arthur Lake, an agreeable young comedian, who got an unfortunate break in premature stardom at R.K.O. "Obey That Impulse" is the name of the Swanson film and despite its songwriting auspices, there will not be a single song in the film, or so it is reported.

Gloria and Ben Lyon are cast as two young people whose lack of inhibitions enables them to do all the ridiculous things that the rest of us are afraid to try. Obviously the keynote of the picture is comedy, but Director Leo McCarey promises drama, also, which is just as well for Gloria's fans were slightly bewildered by her farce, "What a Widow!"

It seems that Herman Mankiewicz, who did the screen play and supervised the filming of Paramount's "The Royal Family," became so incensed at Ina Claire that he wired his resignation to Paramount. The company refused to accept, whereupon Mankiewicz indignantly replied that that, at least, could take his name off the picture. That is the reason his name does not appear on the credit sheet for the burlesque based on the Barrymore family.

Twenty Years '11- Ago '31

For the first time in almost three years there was an explosion at the powder mills at Goes and fortunately no one was hurt.

Mr. R. C. Watt, Cedarville Pike, has been elected a member of the executive committee of the Ohio Swine Breeders' Association.

Mr. Louis Baldner arrived home from Kokomo, Ind., where he has been employed for the last several months.

amount of $3,500,000, thus placing the total tentative valuation at $194,252,735.

Many engineers testified before the commission, their testimony covering many thousands of pages together with thousands of exhibits. The greatest difference between the estimates of the several engineers related to what is known as the "going-concern" value—that is, the cost of attaching business to the completed physical plant so that the entire plant may become a revenue-producing unit.

This going-concern value was estimated by one of the company's engineers at $22,500,000, by W. J. Chicago, an engineer for the state, at $11,250,000, while Harry Allenworth, of Columbus, another engineer for the state, allowed nothing for "going-concern" value.

The commission places the "going-concern" value at $3,592,040. The company's witnesses testified that the company's "book" value was $102,326,000. By adding to this amount a "working capital" of $3,500,000 a total of $105,826,000 is reached. This is $1,544,000 in excess of the tentative value fixed by the commission.

"While there is no connection between reproduction cost and the 'book' value, the commission feels that the fact that the two—after adjustment for working capital—so nearly approach each other reinforces the commission's judgment of the valuation of the reproduction theory," said Chairman Geiger.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. filed its application for approval of increased rates in 1922. Following the lodging of protests with the commission, the company was permitted to collect the new rates after filing bond with the commission thus insuring refunds to subscribers in the event that the boosted rates were not approved.

Representatives of the company today declared that, on the basis of the commission's tentative valuation, the rates which finally will be decided upon by the commission will not be lower than the rates now being collected. If this proves to be the case, the company will not be required to make any refunds.

In October, 1924, the commission consolidated various Bell phone rate cases, both toll and exchange. By this action, forty-three separate cases then pending, the majority of which were applications for increased rates, were merged into a single state-wide case.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10.—"The valuation figure fixed by the public utilities commission is below the value of the company's property devoted to public use," Randolph Elde, president of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., stated here today in commenting on the ruling of the commission in fixing a tentative property valuation for the company.

"Any lowering of present rates would impair the company's ability to meet its obligations to furnish adequate and dependable service," Elde declared.

"While we credit the commission with a conscientious and painstaking effort to make a just decision, nevertheless the valuation figure is below the value of the company's property," the president said.

"Cutting the valuation too closely can only result in the long run in deterioration of service with practically negligible benefit to the telephone user."

SHOOTING VICTIM

Last photo of Elizabeth Johnson, 16-year-old Port Arthur, Texas, girl, who was found shot to death in the automobile of her young lover, Robert Williams, 18-year-old University of Texas sophomore. Although Williams insists the girl shot herself he has been held for the grand jury under $10,000 bond.

MRS. ARMOUR WINS

Mrs. Lolita Sheldon Armour, widow of J. Ogden Armour, packing house king, is laughing at increased rates in 1922. Following the lodging of protests with the commission, the company was permitted to collect the new rates after filing bond with the commission thus insuring refunds to subscribers in the event that the boosted rates were not approved.

SCOUT TROOP PLANS WILL BE DISCUSSED AT DINNER MEETING

Members of the Troop 45 committee, scoutmaster and assistants together with the patrol leaders, and scribe will hold a dinner meeting at the Francis Inn, Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. as guests of the Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, chairman of the troop committee.

Definite plans for continuing the troop will be considered. The problem of so-called junior scouts and a program for the younger boys who have been attending troop meetings will be considered for its final solution. Troop 45's participation in Boy Scout anniversary week and the campfire will also be among the items of business.

Those who will be present include Scoutmaster E. L. Blackburn; Assistant Scoutmasters Leonard Trunell, J. F. Molitor, and Kenneth Witham; Patrol Leaders, Robert Foley, Kenneth Jones, Elmer Schardt, and Donald Walter; Star Scout Robert Friedman; Senior Patrol Leader Frank Lorimer; Scribe James Phillips; and the following troop committeemen: H. K. Snyder, Walter Jones, and John Vanderpool.

A better understanding of the desires of the boys, a definite program for the next three months and a decision as to what to do with the boys who are not of Scout age, are some of the motives back of the proposed meeting.

Poems that Live

ON THE DEATHS OF THOMAS CARLYLE AND GEORGE ELIOT

TWO souls diverse out of our human sight
Pass, followed one with love and each with wonder:
The stormy sophist with his mouth of thunder,
Clothed with loud words and mantled in the might
Of darkness and magnificence of night;
And one whose eye could smite the night in sunder,
Searching if light or no light were thereunder,
And found in love of loving-kindness light.
Duty divine and Thought with eyes of fire
Still following Righteousness with deep desire
Shone sole and stern before her and above,
Sure stars and sole to steer by; but more sweet
Shone lower the loveliest lamp for earthly feet,
The light of children, and their love.

—Algernon C. Swinburne (1837-1909)

Boy Scout Work In County Has Grown From Small Beginning Scribe Shows

Through the co-operative effort of a group of faithful trained men in Greene County as a part of the Tecumseh Council, Boy Scouts of America, Scouting has grown from two troops and thirty-five Scouts in 1926 to eight troops and 222 Scouts at present.

More than sixty adult leaders are now registered with Boy Scout Troops in Greene County, and the large majority of these men hold either a minimum or an approved certificate to signify that they completed certain requirements in a registered Scout training class.

The various troops in the county with their sponsoring organization location, and Scoutmasters follow:

Troop 40, located in the East End is sponsored by a group of citizens from that neighborhood. E. A. Roberts is Scoutmaster. Troop 41 is now being sponsored by the Xenia Rotary Club and has as its Scoutmaster, Carl Pramer. Troop 43 of Xenia is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and the organization selected Paul McFarland for Scoutmaster. The First Lutheran Church sponsors Troop 45 of which E. L. Blackburn is the registered Scoutmaster. Troop 62 is sponsored by the O. S. and S. O. Home and is also headed by Scoutmaster Blackburn.

The American Legion of Fairfield-Osborn are sponsoring Troop 54, Wilber A. Buffenbarger is the Scoutmaster. The Civic Club with several members of the faculty of Antioch College are sponsoring Troop 56 of Yellow Springs. Merrill Dawson, athletic director of Antioch College, is the Scoutmaster.

Cedarville's new troop, No. 68 in the Tecumseh Council, is sponsored by the community. A. W. Creswell is the Scoutmaster. Twenty Greene County Scouts took advantage of the Council Camp at Camp Miami, located on the Bryan State Farm, near Yellow Springs, last summer. Camp Miami is open to all Scouts of the Council thus offering class camping to Scouts under trained supervision at a minimum cost.

During 1930, seventy-two Scouts from Greene County became second class Scouts; forty-six were advanced to first class, and there were 116 merit badges earned and distributed to the Scouts here. Lester Price of Troop 41, Xenia, and John Kennedy of Troop 56, Yellow Springs, were advanced to the Eagle Rank, which is the highest that a Boy Scout age can attain. Richard Stiles and Robert Friedman of Troop 45, Xenia, received their Star Scout Rank awards during the year while Frank Lorimer, another Star Scout of Troop 45 received his life Scout badge during the same period.

Greene County Scout leaders are now making preparations for Boy Scout Anniversary Week February 8 to 14 inclusive. Following that will be Scout leader's training class offering courses in elementary and advanced Scouting as well as a special first aid course. This class will get started shortly after March 1. While all of this is going on, alert Scoutmasters are instructing and schooling their boys in the real elements of Scouting such as doing a good turn daily, living the Scout oath and in laws, campcraft, cookcraft, first aid, compass instruction, knots and their practical uses, signaling, fire by friction, judging, mapwork, handicraft and hiking in preparation for the big Tecumseh Council Campfire at Shawnee Park on May 15 and 16.

Henry Thies, editor and publisher of the Xenia Post, is the business manager of the Post.

A banquet will be held and Frank W. Rostock, editor and president of the Post, will be toastmaster. During the broadcast music will be furnished by Isham Jones' dance orchestra and a concert orchestra under the direction of William C. Stoess. Executives of the NEA service, United Press and Scripps-Howard Newspapers will be guests of honor at the affair, plans for which are in charge of Ralph H. Quinn, business manager of the Post.

EAST END NEWS

MRS. JAMES HARRIS
Correspondent
Tel. 91-R

Mrs. Cora Hawkins and Mrs. Malissa Dudley, E. Main St., were in Springfield Friday to visit Miss Mary Mayhew, who is a patient in the Tuberculosis Hospital. They report her very much improved.

Mr. Guy Leach, E. Main St., accompanied his wife, Mrs. Odette Leach, Wednesday to Hot Springs, Ark., where she will undergo treatment in the hospital. Mr. Leach will remain there several weeks with her.

At the early part of the services Sunday morning at the Zion Baptist Church, Miss Hallie Q. Brown of Wilberforce, will speak on extension work as to how it will be offered in the near future to the public free of charge. She will also speak at the close of the services at St. John's A. M. E. Church and the following Sunday at the other churches in the city.

Sister Emma Crosswhite of Washington C. H. O., will speak at the home of Mrs. Jennie Gilbert, 425 E. Market St., Sunday afternoon. There will be a divine healing service.

Chas. Young Auxiliary No. 58, will meet at the home of Mrs. Lucy Towles Monday night, January 12. All persons who are to receive the initiation are requested to be present. The yearly election of officers will also take place, and a full attendance of members are desired to be present. E. M. S. secretary.

The friends of Mrs. Mary Hill of Dayton, are glad to know that she is recovering rapidly from her recent illness.

The family of Mr. Wm. Scott of E. Main St., who have been shut in for the past twenty-one days, are now able to be out again, much to the delight of their many friends. The cause of their illness was scarlet fever.

The C. N. and I Department of Wilberforce University is again offering extension courses in Xenia. The purpose of the work is, in as far as possible, to give courses along certain lines similar to those offered to the students in residence. Each course represents a definite amount of instruction and when completed satisfactorily, receives due recognition.

Enrollment in classes is simple and informal. There are practically no prerequisites, the only requirement being that the prospective student profit by the instruction given. The only condition imposed is that a sufficient number of persons enroll to assure an average attendance sufficient to warrant the effort. Each course extends over a period of twelve weeks meeting once each week for two hour periods.

The following courses will be offered: sewing, millinery, cooking and home nursing.

The advantages of pursuing these courses, free of charge, should be a powerful incentive for a record enrollment. Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in Lincoln Building.
